

University
of Rochester

ED452C Instructional Strategies for Inclusive Classrooms

Session 5
6/2/2026

Elyse Schirmer

Agenda

1. Check-In
2. Discussion Posts
3. Effective Practices
4. Classroom Management Continued
5. Take Away

Check-In

One Word + Why

Everyone drops one word in the chat and explains why.

For example: What's your current energy level?

Discussion Posts

<https://docs.google.com/document/d/1-hlWnqaQ4X6JFxVgxYjjwneFru3JvbMQ6avpwrsrY3w/edit?usp=sharing>

Effective Practices

“Students with disabilities deserve, and require, effective instruction. Too often, expectations have been woefully low for both students with disabilities and their teachers.” (Wehmeyer & Kurth, 2021, p. 27)

Effective Practices

Family-School Partnerships

- Communication
 - Ask families their preferred mode of communication
- Commitment
 - Share your hopes and expectations for the student
- Equality
 - Sending home draft IEPs...
- Skills
 - Solicit input and feedback from families
- Trust
 - Share good news with families too!
- Respect
 - Value the student and their family

Effective Practices

“Special education is the provision of specially designed instruction.” (Wehmeyer & Kurth, 2021, p. 31)

Instructional Strategies

Twenty Two High Leverage Practices (HLPs)

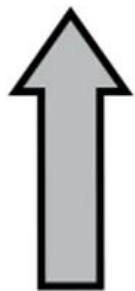

<https://highleveragepractices.org/structure-4-domains-22-hlps>

Effective Practices

Teaching Arrangements

- Roles and responsibilities
 - Educator roles
 - Classwide paraprofessionals
 - Peer-assisted learning
- Teaching Strategies
 - Instructional cycles (co-plan, co-teach, progress monitor)

High
Control

Low
Control

Authoritarian

Hostility
Coercion
Psychological control

Authoritative

Controlling but fair
Receptive to student needs
Provides positive feedback

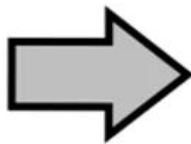

Permissive

Uninterested
Disengaged
Out of control classrooms

Indulgent

Prioritise relationships
Has difficulty saying no
Gives Freedom
Focus on effort vs work quality

Low involvement

High involvement

Take Away

What is something that you are taking away from today's class?